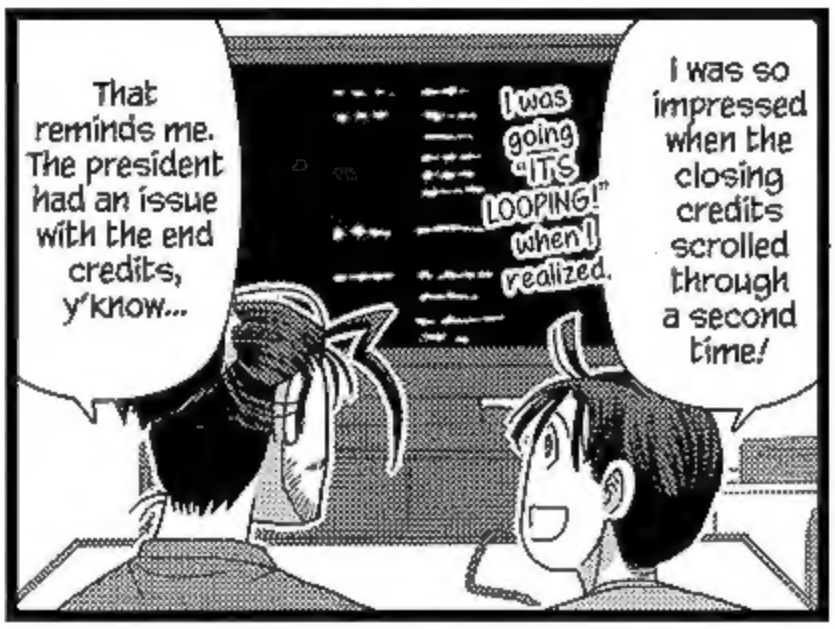
END CREDITS



That reminds me. The president had an issue with the end credits, y'know...
I was going "IT'S LOOPING!" when I realized.
I was so impressed when the closing credits scrolled through a second time!

"The gall of him."
"I got so fuckin' pissed I forced him ta put it in."
RAGE
After all, there's no end, so there's no need!
Adding the end credits is a hassle. Let's do away with it!

PISSED
He tried ta get rid of it 'cause it was a "hassle"...
End credits acknowledge quality assurance and our staff. It's also the pride of the creator.

Didn't that president do something worse?
Like with the debts and vanishing act?
He's only angry about that?
THAT SHITTY BASTARD PISSES ME OFF EVEN NOW!

I hope I'm not spoiling anything~ I'm worried.

Nobu-san really loves dogs, huh.
PETTING ANKORO EVERY CHANCE HE GETS.
That time when Nobu-san didn't know I was a player yet.

...I love it, though!
And... rather than deep kisses, he just plants his lips on me many times.

I guess he gives me lots of rubs and tickles me a lot.
Whenever I'm with him,

but maybe I'm being treated like a pet...?

Despite wondering if I should have kept mum about being human,
I started coercing the reluctant Nobu-san into the "Platinum Age of Rubs."
→ WILL GIVE IN
Rubs, please. —Pretty please!
By the way, Nobu-san's favorite part of me is my ω-shaped mouth.
He's making me do the face again.
Just for a bit. Okay?

Translator's Notes

Thanks to bù dīng noticing it, two missing pages were added to Chapter 16!

In the previous chapter, it is shown in the end credits that Anan took his mother's name after his parents' divorce. Why it gutted him so much to come to that decision is because of Japan's "One-Parent Rule."

"[...] It is alien to Japanese tradition and Japanese law for a child's parents to have any significant sharing of parental responsibility upon a family break-up. When parents separate in Japan, one parent invariably takes the child and the other parent largely or entirely disappears from the child's life. It is an extension of the traditional Japanese custom that children belong to a family and can be registered on the official Japanese koseki (family register) of only one family. Thus, the one-parent rule is not merely the mandated law but it is also the societal norm [...]"
https://www.international-divorce.com/japans-one-parent-rule

It is solely the parents who agree on who the child will end up with, but Anan, being older of age (he should be around 15), was given the chance to make that decision by his parents. But, it's still a hard choice given the consequences.
